

Ten Girls Who Changed the World (Lightkeepers) By Irene Howat What is so special about these girls and how did they change their world? Isobel Kuhn believed in God and then obeyed his call to travel to Asia to tell the Lisu people about God. Corrie Ten Boom put her life on the line to save the lives of many Jews in the hiding place a hidden room behind her wardrobe in a little watch shop in Haarlem Holland. Mary Slessor (Missionary in Africa) Corrie Ten Boom (hid Jews in Nazi Germany) Evelyn Brand (Missionary in India) Joni Eareckson Gladys Aylward (Missionary in China) Jackie Pullinger (Missionary in Hong Kong) Amy Carmichael (Missionary in India) Elisabeth Fry (Worked among the sick prisoners and homeless) Catherine Booth (Co-Founder of The Salvation Army) and Isobel Kuhn (Missionary in Asia) Ten Girls Who Changed the World (Lightkeepers) Didn't actually read it myself bought it for a Sunday School prize giving. As for the storyline they give details and create real life imagery and suspense of what life was like for these women without it being too scary! Perfect for age 8 10 but also younger advanced readers:

I bought this as a gift and I have had no adverse comments from the recipients so I am assuming it is OK, Irene Howat Truly inspiring and a great way to get young people reading and growing in their faith, Irene Howat Fab stories well written for children practical and inspirational. Irene Howat

Isobel Kuhn questioned whether God even existed: Joni Eareckson broke her neck during a diving accident and Corrie Ten Boom just lived with her family in a little watch shop in Harlaam Holland. Mary Slessor put herself through evening classes and eventually became one of the first white women to venture into the interior of Africa: Joni Eareckson struggled through her treatment and endless hospital visits to become the inspiration to many Christians, Corrie Ten Boom spent most of her life just living in Holland until the Nazis started killing the Jews. It is an interesting book of potted biographies ideal for early teenagers, It encourages youngsters to read of Christians who really did make a difference, These ladies lived their lives for God influencing and changing people and situations around them while risking their own lives: Irene Howat My daughter 6 is an AVID reader and got through this in about an hour, As you can imagine I'm being pestered for the rest of the books in the series, I also got one for my niece 5 who wants to purchase the rest too. I've given loads as presents. My 8 year old daughter loves these stories. Irene Howat a great present Irene Howat Fast delivery. Happy with purchase. Mary Slessor grew up in a slum with an alcoholic father. Sorry. Irene Howat We bought for our grand daughters' baptism. DL Irene Howat This is a missionary biography for children.
